"As a proud native of rural California, Elizabeth understands the needs of the North State, and will be a strong advocate for her community" said Board Member Jing Qu. "Elizabeth's experience as a farmer, business owner, and her years in resource management will lend an important voice in Sacramento. We were impressed by the record-breaking 42.7% vote share she earned in 2019 and are excited to help her succeed in 2020."
